Richmond Know Your Community A Collaborative Dialogue on Cultural Heritage

From Underinvestment to Flourishing: Reinvigorating the Arts in Richmond

SERIES DESCRIPTION

Through a series of roundtable discussions, the Richmond Museum of Culture & History is fostering community dialogue and highlighting the rich cultural tapestry of Richmond, California. The series will gather community members, leaders, and cultural institutions to share insights, stories, and concerns, shaping future public programming and exhibits. Additionally, the Museum aims to create a robust volunteer team from the community to serve as program advisors.

FIRST PANEL DISCUSSION

From Underinvestment to Flourishing: Reinvigorating the Arts in Richmond. The inaugural panel will address the underinvestment in the arts within our community, examining its historical and societal roots, its impact on individuals and communities, and potential solutions to foster greater support for the arts in Richmond and beyond.

ROUNDTABLE WITH LEADERS

Richmond Museum of Culture & History staff will invite diverse leaders and cultural institutions to share their expertise, insights, and perspectives. These presentations will provide a platform for these communities to showcase their rich heritage.

COMMUNITY DISCUSSION

Facilitated by a community moderator, participants will engage in a structured and informative exchange of ideas. The moderator's role is to guide the conversation and maintain a respectful and productive dialogue.

Q & A SESSION

Attendees will have the opportunity to ask questions and engage with community leaders, encouraging open and ongoing dialogue.
